telling manner, with their hands, arms, feet and gowns, giving valuable assistance in getting them over, made them big favorites.

Two charmingly refined acts are those presented by the Mus-Art Three and the Hughes sisters. The former offer a number of nicely chosen sentimental ballads, in trio form, with the scene pictured in the song being drawn with crayons, on a large canvas, by the artist-singer member of the troupe. The drawings are highly artistic and add much to the charm of the act. The trio are all capable musicians but the artist received the biggest "hand" by singing as a special feature, "Gypsy Sweetheart" from Balfe's "Bohemian Girl."

The Hughes sisters, Helen and Marie, are instrumentalists par excellence and their playing of the harp and violin was a treat rarely given to a vaudeville audience.

They proved too, that the appreciation of such an audience can still be won by the music of the masters when played in a manner worthy of their composers. Among the selections was Wieniawski's difficult violin solo "Russian Airs" and the "Sextette" from Lucia, the latter being played as a harp solo.

James Brockman, billed as the American Chevalier, while the first part of his offering kept the audience guessing as to whether they were going to like him or not, proved himself to be one of the most versatile entertainers who ever depended upon himself and a dress-suit to win an audience.

Mr. Brockman is possessed of a seemingly endless fund of clever descriptive songs and a style of singing them that is all his own. He also has a singing voice of splendid quality, range and power and the more he used it last night the longer the audience wanted him to stay.

The Bartlett, two of the best developed athletes, man and woman, ever seen on a local stage, present a startling set aerial act. With almost uncanny strength and nerve, they perform a number of feats on the high trapeze that are worth anyone's time and money.

The Orpheus, closing the bill, shows some exceptionally interesting events which have recently taken place in different parts of the globe.

COMMUTATION FOR WOMAN IS ASKED

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 7.—Mrs. Beale Wakefield, condemned to die on the gallows for taking part in the murder of her husband, William C. Wakefield, was transferred from the county jail at New Haven to the state prison at Wethersfield today. She will remain in the woman's section until the time set for her execution, March 4 next.

The movement to secure commutation of sentence is gaining headway. Mrs. Thomas N. Hepburn, president of the Connecticut Women's Suffrage association, stated today she believed she voiced the sentiment of all suffragists in Connecticut in saying she did not believe Mrs. Wakefield should be hanged.

SUPERINTENDENT OF MINE IS MURDERED

Eagle Pass, Nov. 7.—R. Weineger, assistant superintendent of the Pecos Mining company at Mapimi, state of Durango, Mexico, was robbed and then killed at the direction of a Constitutional leader, according to information brought to Eagle Pass last night by Ernest Miller, an official of the mining company. Miller, with other refugees, reached the border after an overland journey of eighteen days.

Miller said that after Weineger had been killed his fingers were cut off so the Constitutional commander might obtain his rings.

The refugees who arrived last night were escorted to the boundary by a relief expedition sent to Mapimi two months ago. They were the last of the American residents to quit the mining settlement.

To Improve Pretty Hair and Beautify Ugly Hair

Harmony Hair Beautifier, a delightful liquid hair dressing, is just what it is named—a hair beautifier. No matter how pretty your hair now is, it can be made to look even better by using Harmony Hair Beautifier. To those who mourn because the hair is stringy, dull, lustreless and homely, Harmony Hair Beautifier will prove a real blessing and pleasure. It seems to polish and burnish the hair, making it glossy, silky-soft and more easy to put up in graceful, wavy folds that "stay put." It overcomes the oily smell of the hair with a dainty, true rose fragrance, very pleasing to the user and those around.

Very easy apply—simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. It contains no oil, and will not change the color of the hair, nor darken gray hair.

To keep hair and scalp dandruff-free and clean, use Harmony Shampoo. This pure liquid shampoo gives an instantaneous rich lather that immediately penetrates to every part of hair and scalp, insuring a quick, thorough cleansing. Washed off just as quickly, the entire operation takes only a few moments. Contains nothing that can harm the hair; leaves no harshness or stickiness—just a sweet cleanliness.

Both preparations come in odd-shaped, very ornamental bottles, with sprinker tops. Harmony Hair Beautifier, $1.50. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. COMPROMISE MAY COME AT LAST Decided Efforts Being Made to Induce Agreement With Suffragists.

GIVE UP MILITANCY

Unqualified Repudiation of Methods Demanded By Government.

London, England, Nov. 7.—Decided efforts are being made to induce the British government to come to an agreement with the suffragists, whereby a measure for the enfranchisement of women can be made a part of the official program of the Liberal party.

Some suffragist leaders said today that this movement has obtained considerable headway. A strong feature of the conference has been the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Petthick Lawrence, who left the women's social and political union at the request of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst.

It is known that the government will consider a compromise based only on an unqualified repudiation of the women's social and political union and all its militant methods.

Hitherto the constitutional suffragettes have refused to criticize their militant sister formally, declaring that it was bad tactics in the face of the common enemy to question the actions of the militants, but several constitutional suffragette leaders now express themselves as willing to abandon this attitude. They have, they say, become convinced that only by suppression of the militants is there any hope of obtaining the parliamentary suffrage for women. Women already possess the municipal suffrage and may hold any civic office outside of parliament.

EXPRESS RATES TO COME DOWN

All express companies entering Utah have announced a revision of the rates in accordance with the orders of the interstate commerce commission, and the effort on the part of the express companies to compete with the parcel post.

The charges which will be put in effect on February 1, 1914, on first and second class express matter will be materially reduced. Merchandise, which is first class express, will be carried in some instances for one-half the rate in force at present, and second class matter will be materially reduced.

The advance sheets of the new express tariffs have not as yet been received at any of the local express offices, and figures are lacking as to the actual reductions which have been made. The American, Globe and Wells-Fargo Express companies are all affected by the reduction in rates, and have planned a campaign to compete with the government in the parcel carrying industry. The express companies are going after the big business of the mail order houses, and of clothing merchants who sell ready to wear garments. The parcel post made such inroads upon this phase of the express business that the rates upon first class matter have been reduced until they will be much lower than the parcel post in some instances.

Make Blanket Rate.

Second class express matter consists of eggs, butter and other food-stuffs and commodities. The express companies are not going after this business very strongly, owing to the breakage and the liability for delay. The rates upon second class matter have not been materially reduced, according to the local agents, but in some instances 20 per cent has been knocked off the rate which prevails at present. In all cases the fourth of the first class rate, instead of having the rate which has been reduced until they will be much lower than the parcel post in some instances.

When the hearings were held by the interstate commerce commission upon the rates charged by the express companies it was found that several of the companies had made dividends amounting to over 500 per cent during one year. The Adams Express company, which covers the thickly populated eastern section of the country, made a much higher dividend than 500 per cent and was the company which fought the interstate commerce commission to the last ditch in the matter of whether the federal regulating body had the jurisdiction to supervise express companies.

After the report for the first six months upon the business done by the parcel post, the express companies found, it is said, that there business in the carrying of small parcels had dropped off very materially. When the new rates were ordered by the interstate commerce commission the express companies decided to go after the government and compete with the parcel post. In order to secure the large business which originates in Chicago through mail order house shipments and not be brought up on the carpet on a charge of discrimination, the express companies figured how they could haul the small parcels at a less rate than the government and still make money. It is said that this was due to the fact that the long-time contracts with the railroad companies at a much lower rate per hundred pounds than the government pays for the carrying of the mails enabled the express companies to put the new rates, which are below the postal charges, into effect.

INDEPENDENCE TO SOLVE BIG PROBLEM

Boston, Nov. 7.—"The morality of the far-east will be thoroughly undermined by our western independence."

That is what President W. P. P. Faunce, of Brown university, addressing the Baptist state union today, said would happen when "American individualism meets the east." President Faunce has just returned from a visit to the Orient where he made a study of social and economic conditions.

"In the Orient no individual dares to stand alone. If caste were halted for a day in India there would be chaos. The impact of American individualism on the crystallized society of the Orient forms one of the greatest problems the world has ever faced and it will prove either the glory or the tragedy of the twentieth century."

MANY DISTINGUISHED GUESTS AT WEDDING

London, Nov. 7.—William F. McCombs of New York, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Miss Dorothy Williams, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. John R. Williams of Washington, D. C., were married today. The ceremony took place in the Roman Catholic chapel of St. Peter and St. Edward, Palace street, West Minister, and was performed by Father Bernard Vaughan.

The bride was unattended. Charles Woodruff Halsey of New York, a classmate of McCombs and Princeton, acted as best man.

A distinguished congregation gathered in the chapel, including Walter Hines Page, the United States ambassador and Mrs. Page, Myron T. LAST OF LINCOLN DELEGATES IS DEAD

INTERESTING LAW QUESTION IN IOWA

Mason City, Ia., Nov. 7.—One of the interesting questions which is being discussed by the friends of the late Mr. and Mrs. Grafton Stevens, who were burned to death in their home at Wilmette, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, and whose bodies were buried at Charles City, Iowa, Sunday, is the distribution of the estate of the couple. They died without issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens owned considerable property. The question is as to which one died first.

If Mr. Stevens died first, the property should go to the relatives of Mrs. Stevens. If Mrs. Stevens died first, the property should go to the relatives of her husband.

The common law holds, attorneys say, that where husband and wife die together, it is presumed that the wife died first. In Illinois there is no code governing the question.

BALKAN WAR CALLED BLUNDER AND CRIME

Ithaca, N. Y., Nov. 7.—Speaking last night in public for the first time on "the Situation in the Balkans," since his return from Athens, where he was formerly United States minister to Greece, President Jacob Gould Schurman of Cornell university characterized the Balkan war between the allies as a blunder and a crime.

"Bulgaria refused to arbitrate and resorted to force," he said. "It was a crime because she refused to recognize the rights of or meet her allies in a friendly conference and if necessary to submit their differences to arbitration. It was a blunder because she exposed enormous advantages already secured by Bulgaria to the arbitrament of the sword."

THEATERS

AT THE ORPHEUM

After a lapse of one week, the Panjages vaudeville came back strong yesterday, with an excellent bill which, from the overture from "Baron Trenck," played by Albert Erickson's Orpheum orchestra, to the exit march, received the unreserved approval of three large audiences.

Harry Fisher and company, booked as sensational bicycle riders, made a good opening act, with Fisher's comedy costumes putting the audience in an appreciative mood. They can ride some too, and Fisher showed himself possessed of remarkable equilibrium by divesting himself of several surplus vests and then picking them up from the floor while nonchalantly riding about the stage on a monocycle. The sensational part of the act came at its close when the company made a flying leap to the shoulders of his partner, who was still riding his monocycle, and rose to a standing position with a rapidity that made the "stunt" a success and the act well worth seeing.

With gowns that may well be called indescribable, the De Von Sisters put a big bunch of that essence termed "life" into the bill. Their humor is surely infectious and their cleverly pointed songs, sung in a
